

JUNK JOURNAL SUPPLIES ORGANIZATION

Book Pages, Music Sheets & Vintage Paper

Organization Ideas

You might like to have separate folders for each of these “types” of pages:

- Neutral book pages & music sheets (for collaging and decoupage)
- Neutral - PLAIN (for backing journal cards, tags, etc)
- Sturdy book pages - PLAIN (for making bases for pockets, folios, tri-folds, envelopes, collage masterboards, etc)
- Sturdy book pages - PRETTY (for making decorative pockets, folios, envelopes, etc)
- “Special” pages (for using as full-size journal pages)
- Cover stars (images and pages that belong on the cover of a journal)
- Pretty pages for cutting down (to use as ephemera, journal cards, etc)
- Pages for fussy cutting
- Strips (for making masterboards, page edges, word dangles, etc)
- Glue sheets (to protect your desk when crafting; ideal for book pages you don't like or that have not nice words on them)

You might also want to have separate folders for extra special pages like Edith Holden pages or pages from the Flower Fairies books. These would likely be used for specific projects, so you might find it useful to separate them out.

“Using Up Book Pages” Project Ideas

Here are some easy ideas for using up book pages (especially plain ones) quickly:

- Mass make folio, tri-fold, envelope and pocket bases
- Glue together multiple music sheets and decorate with napkins to make insides of journal covers
- Make several collage masterboards (on top of sturdy book pages)
- Use strong but boring pages as backings for fabric or lace pockets
- Decoupage stuff with plain book pages (storage boxes, shelves, furniture, make artwork, etc)
